Dear Mr. Thornton

ELA Boll

My wife & I take the opportunity to register our concern and opposition to this Bill.

Very vulnerable people will find it hard to avoid a form of pressure spoken or unspoken, to end their life due to their implied lack of worth or value. And it is morally & ethically indefensible that other individuals have to directly share in the suicide or killing of a fellow human. The Divine Word is clear: You Shall not Kill.

Basic common sense cries out it is most unwise for us, truly fallible mortals, to arrogantly take upon ourselves that which totally belongs in the Creator's realm. After all, each of us is to face God's judgement - without having the additional burden of assisting in another's death.

It is absolutely essential that each MP faithfully reflects their constituents' views rather than their own stance. Indeed, a referendum would be best so that our nation's view is accurately determined - with any doubts removed.

And sincerely,

Graham Wilson
